"It’s not wisdom to wait blindly for science to confirm truth, to neglect philosophy as just another tool, or to delay belief until all 4000+ faiths have been studied—that’s not reason, but paralysis. True wisdom lies in forming faith from current understanding and shared beliefs, choosing the closest matching path, while continuing to question, learn, explore others, and stay safe on the journey toward truth(such as from eternal punishment). Out of over 4,000 religions, there might be only one that’s truly from God(necessary existent with necessary qualities)."

“The moment you reject philosophy, you’re doing philosophy — just not very well.” ....
